The Safe System Approach to Road Safety Summer Institute

The Center for Injury Research and Policy Summer Institute at the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health is providing a learning experience to injury prevention students and/or injury prevention practitioners and scholars from a variety of disciplines from June 6-29, 2023. It applies the National Core Competencies for Injury and Violence Prevention to the Safe System Approach to road safety. In addition to the interactive synchronous context, students engage with recorded content and apply Safe System principles to their own communities to promote skill building and experiential earning.

Additional Information:

- Up to 16 Professional Development Hours are available
- Tuition is $2,642 for credit and $1,322 for noncredit students
- A limited number of scholarships for noncredit tuition are available
