

ITE Global District

For Consultants and Private-Sector Professionals

Who Should Join

Consultants and private-sector professionals working in transportation, including planning, engineering, technology, data, research, and operations.

Why ITE

ITE—A Community of Transportation Professionals (ITE) connects consultants with public agencies, emerging talent, and global best practices—supporting business growth, technical excellence, and professional credibility.

With a balanced membership of public agency and private-sector professionals, ITE creates a trusted forum where consultants can engage with decision-makers and peers shaping transportation policy, funding priorities, and industry standards.

Value to You and Your Firm

www.ite.org/global

Business Development & Market Intelligence

- Build relationships within a balanced network of public agency leaders and private-sector professionals
- Gain insight into emerging policy, funding priorities, standards, and global transportation trends
- Strengthen visibility and position your firm with key decision-makers

Technical Excellence & Competitive Advantage

- Participate in more than 50 free professional development webinars annually
- Apply Standards, Informational Reports, Recommended Practices, Technical Briefs, and other guidance to strengthen project delivery and innovation
- Integrate global best practices and lessons learned from practitioners worldwide into your work

Credibility & Industry Visibility

- Earn certificates and certifications that reinforce individual and firm expertise
- Secure national and global speaking platforms at the ITE Annual Meeting and Virtual Spring Conference
- Leverage publication avenues to highlight innovative projects and technical insights
- Demonstrate program leadership through development and delivery of professional webinars

Workforce Development & Talent Pipeline

- Engage directly with ITE student chapters to strengthen recruitment and early-career development
- Connect with top transportation students and emerging professionals
- Develop and retain young professionals through programs such as ignITE and Back to Basics

Influence & Professional Engagement

- Shape transportation practice through active participation in Councils and Committees
- Contribute directly to standards, recommended practices, and industry guidance

Global Perspective & Community

- Collaborate with a diverse, multidisciplinary community of planners, engineers, technologists, researchers, academics, and public agency professionals
- Broaden your firm's perspective on transportation challenges and solutions through global engagement

Contact us: Farukh Ijaz at fijaz@ite.org and Colleen Agan at cagan@ite.org

A Community of Transportation Professionals

ITE Membership Advantage

The ITE Global District extends your firm's reach beyond geographic boundaries and connects you to a worldwide network of transportation leaders. Active involvement strengthens international perspective, elevates professional visibility, and positions your firm within a collaborative community advancing safer, smarter, and more innovative transportation systems globally.